

CESENATICO: A WORLD HIDDEN BY A-MARE

Before being a tourist place, Cesenatico is a seafaring city and you can read the signs hidden around its beating heart: the Leonardo canal port. In this path we propose a dichotomy between what has been, the history of boats and fish products, ferried towards the present, in which the "know-how" has been handed down over time, has evolved and allowed to deeply contaminate the nature and culture of the city.
